

PATENT

Serial No. 1C/527,119

Amendment in Reply to Office Action mailed on November 18, 2005

NEW ABSTRACT

An apparatus processes data contained in a carrier by moving it. A motor, which rotates the data carrier, needs angular information on the rotary part of the motor for commutation. Marks are placed on the data carrier for measuring accurately the required angle,. A detector senses these marks so that the measurement of the angle is easily performed.